Voting and COVID-19

- You have until May 26th to mail in your Voter Registration form. You should register to vote by mail as soon as possible.

- The Governor is letting all the counties decide if they want to allow people to vote by mail for the next election. For more information, contact your local county election office to find out what your county is going to do.

- You don't have to wait until election day to vote. You can vote early! The county election offices will have accessible voting machines starting May 4th until election day.

- If you need a voting machine, like the AutoMARK™ or ExpressVote®, they will only be available at the county election offices. You should call your local county election office beforehand to make sure that they have one. You can also ask if they have curbside voting.

- If you need to go to your election office to register or vote early, go between May 4th and May 26th. This can help you maintain social distancing and avoid long lines.

- You can register and vote at your local county election office up until election day. To avoid long lines on election day, you should vote by mail or vote early at your local county election office. This is a good way to protect your health and safety during COVID-19.

- If you want to vote early at your local county election office, you should wait until you get your ballot in the mail. If you choose to go beforehand, you should call your local county election office first.

- If you have any trouble with voting, please contact us and let us know. Disability Rights Montana's phone number is 1-800-245-4743.
